Morning Start our journey by Chang Hua Mun Royal Initiative Project Chang Hua Mun literally translates as "weighing a potato", Chang Hua Mun is also the name of a very successful Royal Project. This project started in 2008, when King Bhumibol purchased in two plots of land near the Nong Seua Reservoir. The land was initially 120 Rai (47.5 acre) then a further 130 Rai (51.3 acres) totaling 250 Rai (98.8 acres). The land had been degraded and was unwanted with significant soil damage from chemical contamination. It has now been restored and developed into an agricultural and livestock showcase and a model of sustainable farming practices. We will also rent bicycle and cycling around the area if not , you also can walk around and see many parts of the project.

After Chang Hua Mun, we will head to have lunch at Kaeng Krachan national park

Noon lunch at Kaeng Krachan

Afternoon We will go for viewpoint of Kaeng Krachan Dam where you can see beautiful panoramic view of the lake. Then not too far from viewpoint there is also a long Rope Bridge Kaeng Krachan which a good spot for taking picture as many movie filmed at this spot.

Late afternoon we go to Ban Lung Kae homestay and get ourselves ready for a sightseeing boat ride which will take you around Kaeng Krachan lake and
